

BISHOP PREACHES TO YOUNG PEOPLE

Says Many Defeat God's Plans in Choosing Life Work.

SERMON EPIGRAMATIC

Read New Testament First He Advises; Old Bible Less Important to Us.

Bishop Menzies' Epigrams: "Young man—your woman—before you decide what you are to be in this world, get down your knees and ask God what he wants you to be."

"God's plan is being defeated by indifference. Young man, and young woman—what is your plan in life? Do you intend to drift along? Have you decided that you'll get a job somewhere that will make you a living? The great question is not how you are going to make money, it is 'what are you going to do with your life?'"

"Whether God's desire is to be fulfilled depends on man's will as well as God's."

"The kind of a vessel man is to be depends upon whether he yields himself to the hands of the Almighty Potter."

"God has a plan for every man before he is born. He never planned a bad thing for anybody."

The story of the potter furnished the theme for the sermon of Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon for young people at the Boston Avenue M. E. church last night. Like the potter had in mind a definite idea of the vessel he intended to make, God had in mind a definite idea of the kind of man he wanted to make, the bishop declared.

"It would be great if we could only turn the leaves of the book of life and find what kind of a plan He has for us, wouldn't it?"

"Often man will not let God do with him as the potter did with the clay. Man will not submit his will to the will of God."

"I am talking to many young men who should be ministers of the gospel. Do not smile when I say that. It is true, and you know it. The pupil is the greatest force in the world. Yet you try to convince yourself that you were not meant for the ministry."

"Young man, you intend to enter the oil business or become a lawyer, or a doctor, or a man of some similar profession."

"Young woman, you intend to become a private secretary to someone, or be a school teacher, or a clerk in a store, or possibly you intend to marry."

"Why don't you ask God if there is some definite work He wants you to do? It makes no difference what may become of you if you take your destiny. There are many who defeat God's plan. But the hour comes when the spirit of God convicts of sin and unrighteousness. May the day come when you are not disobedient to the heavenly vision."

"In the paper every morning we read of tragedies. There are domestic tragedies, that are settled in courts; business tragedies, and other tragedies. But the greatest tragedies occur in the individual hearts of men and women—tragedies that are never printed in the newspapers."

"You may not be the vessel God intended you to be. But like the second vessel the potter made, you are still a vessel that God can use."

"The past is irrevocable, the future is available. You've resisted God's will. The clay is stubborn. You needn't be surprised at the finished vessel if you don't let God have his way. Even then—even though the vessel is not what it should be—God can still use you."

The young women's Bible class and the young men's Bible class of the Boston Avenue church joined with each other last night in showing the largest attendance. The young women won the contest with 55, while there were 40 young men.

"The Bible is God's record of the religious education of the world," Bishop Mouzon declared at the morning service yesterday, in a sermon on the Bible and its greatness.

"There is not a truth about God in the Old Testament as in the New Testament; not all books are of equal importance," he said. "God had to begin pretty low down with some men, but he accomplished wonderful results. If Sampson were to come to Tulsa, the wild town that it is, today, he would be put in the calaboose, yet Sampson is enrolled in the saints. Sampson lived in another time than the present."

"God doesn't expect as much from South Africa as he does from the United States. Because Americans are educated. They know the truth. So God does expect something from us."

"Mormons contended that the Bible sanctioned polygamy, and they insist they can do anything that any one in the Bible did. They thought because some Bible characters had more than one wife, they were also entitled to have as many wives as they wished."

"But Joseph Smith's wives are now lying peacefully around him—for once—and the last two words brought a ripple of laughter from the audience."

"The Bible is a bigger miracle than any miracle recorded in the Bible. The books of Daniel and Revelations are the happy hunting grounds for cranks and fanatics."

"How do I know the Bible is inspired? Because it inspires me." Bishop Mouzon suggested a method for reading the Bible that will be found to give the most benefit. He advised reading Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, and then reading them over again. Then read the rest of the New Testament. Make excursions into the Old Testament; then live in the New Testament.

A large number of young people and high school students, to whom last night's sermon was especially directed, attended the services. This morning's services will be especially for all school teachers.

Ticket Memorial and Hagler Memorial churches, which are uniting with the Boston Avenue church in the union services, will hold their own Easter services. They will reunite Sunday night.
